Saturday, December 14. 1706.

EDINBURGH.

Minutes of the Proceedings in Parliament, Friday Dec. 6.

THE 14th Article of Union as amended again read, as also the Clause offered to be added to the said Article; inserted in the Minutes of the last Sederunt, as to the Exemption from any other Customs, Excises, Taxes, or any other Burdens or Duties than those consented to in this Treaty. And after Debate there were two States of a Vote propos'd, the first in these Terms, approve of the Article as amended or not, and the second in these Terms, approve or amend. And before voting, it was agreed that the Members shall be marked as they shall Vote, and that the List of their Names shall be recorded and printed accordingly; then it was put to the Vote which of the two shall be the State of the Vote, first or second, and it carried first by 18. Thereafter the Vote was put, approve of the Article as amended or not, and it carried approve by 38.

Minutes of the Proceedings in Parliament, Saturday Dec. 7. The 15th Article of Union read, and thereafter the first Clause or Paragraph thereof again read; as also the Report brought in from the Committee for examining the Calculation of the Equivalent being as follows, The Committee of Parliament to whom the considering of the Calculation of the Equivalent was remitted, having consider'd the Report made to them by Doctor James Gregory, Professor of the Mathematicks in the College of Edinburgh, and the Report made by Doctor Thomas Bowar, Professor of the Mathematicks in the College of Aberdeen, of their several and respective Examinations of the Calculation and Grounds thereof, whereupon the Commissioners intreating the Article for establishing the Equivalent did proceed. And also having consider'd the Report of the Sub-Committee thereanent, they find that the Calculation of the Equivalent mentioned in the Article is just, and that the Calculation is exact and well founded in the Terms and Manner express'd in the said Article. Whereupon it was propos'd to delay the Consideration of the said 15th Article until Reports be brought in, in relation to the 6th and 8th Articles, from the Committee to whom the said Articles are remitted. And after Debate thereon, it was agreed that the Proceeding on the 15th Article shall not be understood to be any Determination of the 6th or 8th Articles that stand committed; but that the reasoning and voting on the 6th and 8th Articles shall be intire. Then a State of a Vote was offer'd in these Terms, approve of the first Paragraph of the 15th Article or not. But it being moved that the Parliament first consider whether we shall be concerned in the Payment of the English Debts: A second State was thereupon offered, whether we shall engage in the Payment of the Debts of England yea or not. And after some reasoning thereon, it was put to the Vote which of the two should be the State of the Vote, first or second; but before voting it was agreed, that the Members Votes shall be marked, and that a List of their Names as they shall Vote, be printed and recorded. And the Lord Belhaven gave in a Protestation as follows, 'I do protest in my own Name and in the Name of all those who do adhere to this my Protestation, That the voting and agreeing to the first Clause of the 15th Article of the Treaty of Union does noways infer any Manner of Consent or Agreement that Scotland be liable to the English Debts in general; but that it may be lawful to object against any Branch of the said Debt not already determin'd. And he took Instruments thereupon and adhered thereto. Then the Vote was put, first or second, and it carried first by 71. Thereafter it was put to the Vote, approve of the first Clause or Paragraph of the 15th Article or not, and it carried approve by 115. Her Majesty's high Commissioner and the Estates of Parliament did recommend the Persons employ'd in the Calculation of the Equivalent by the Committee, to whom the examining thereof was remitted, to the Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury for a Gratification for their Pains.
